Through the Internet, you can find many free services that convert PDF files to MS Word format, but they all have some or other problems and limitations. Instead, you can use the free Google Docs OCR service to convert pdf to MS. The reason I don't recommend using the free services available on the Internet: They create a copy of your personal document that they might use against you. Official files and private documents should never be downloaded anywhere. They ask you to download free/paid conversion software, which can actually be malware or bloatware. They will ask for your email address so that they can send you spam later. In addition, some of them have size limits and do not allow multiple conversions. In addition, their accuracy and speed of conversion are questionable. Why do I recommend Google Docs convert a PDF to MS? Because it's effective. I have been able to convert locked and secure files that other programs refused. Google Docs' own OCR technology allows you to extract text and formatting from images and PDFs. What else is there?
